

10 Most Common Things Hoarded

1. Paper, especially newspapers, magazines, and flyers--or electronic data
2. Things used in everyday life that don't get put away: food containers, clothing, laundry, shopping and grocery bags, mail
3. Excessive recycling materials that don't get recycled, such as flyers, newspapers, biodegradables
4. Clothing
5. Plastic bags
6. Sentimental things that tell a story of significant life events or happier times
7. Mechanical objects, car parts, electronic equipment and components, tools, nuts, bolts, screws, building materials, leftover pieces of partially used materials that are kept "just in case"
8. Wool, fabric, craft supplies for use in the near future, or for use in potential projects far into the future while current project remains unfinished
9. Furniture and household or work-related items thought to be too good to get rid of, despite no foreseeable need for them, or items discovered by the side of the street believed to be too good to miss
10. Animals